

The Eagle Reporter

EDITOR'S NOTE

Established Oct 2023

I never imagined that my list of "titles" would include "Editor and Chief" of a Middle School Newsletter, but here I am. One day I woke up determined to provide an extracurricular that isn't a sport, a central document for up-to-date Middle School information, and an activity that would strengthen the communication skills, confidence, and comradery of those who participate. I am proud to say that I decided to make the thought a reality. Welcome to our inaugural issue of the Eagle Reporter, made with energy, resourcefulness, and care. We hope that you read, click, watch, and enjoy. – Ms. Hyman

Our inaugural issue of the Eagle Reporter is all about Middle School SGA. We're excited to highlight what your SGA President, Vice President, and Staff Supervisor have to say about upcoming events, their goals for the school year, and how they plan to support YOU. Juan Pablo – Journalist

CJ, SGA President Interview Transcript

Juan: What task do you perform as President of the Middle School SGA?

CJ: I provide the ideas that become the basis for events, fundraisers, field trips etc.

Juan: Why did you decide to run for President?

CJ: A lot of the students ask me for information or advise, I figured I could provide the same service as President; I could help other students.

Juan: How does your role as an athlete help you in your role as President?

CJ: I think it helps because the students know me as an athlete. Being an athlete makes me popular and likeable, that helps in my role as President.

Samaria, SGA Vice-President Interview Transcript

Juan: What inspired you to run for Vice President of Middle School SGA?

Samaria: My mom inspired me. Last year, I applied for a different position, and I didn't get it. This year, my mom told me to apply and pointed out all the things that I do as part of the SBH community and how much I always want to help everyone.

Juan: What do you hope to achieve as Vice President of the SGA?

Samaria: I hope to give Middle School more exposure and accolades. I think that we're overlooked. I want our sports teams to be celebrated as much as high school. I would like us to have more field trips and special events like dances and pep rallies.

Juan: How do your peers feel about you being elected Vice President?

Samaria: I think they mostly feel happy that I was selected. I hope they know that I will do a good job and do my best to get things done.
